Spirit Media Releases Open Arms International DVD

Portland, OR, May 27, 2008 – Spirit Media, a Portland based creative agency, released the Open Arms International DVD to commemorate the non profit's annual Good Friday breakfast. The promotional DVD features New York Times best-selling author, Don Piper, author of 90 Minutes in Heaven.

"We had the pleasure of working with Bill Dolan and his team," says Kaytie Fiedler, Open Arms International Director of Development. "Spirit Media's attention to detail was evident from start to finish. They provided creative, seamless and extremely professional services."

Spirit Media also partnered with Salt and Pepper Productions to produce the annual event. Event services included strategy, consultation, graphic design, image magnification and live event direction.

Open Arms International is headquartered in Portland, Oregon and exists to save lives through medical assessment and treatment of orphaned children in third-world/underdeveloped countries.

Spirit Media is an award-winning creative services agency specializing in the development and delivery of marketing communications through video, interactive media and live events.
